Chris "Bones" Tolson, custom painter for Eddie Trotta at Thunder Cycles, in Ft Lauderdale, Florida. Bones has always been drawing, for as long as he can remember. At age 13, his mom bought him an airbrush and things took off from there.

Bones started with murals on tailgates, at 16 years old he was making good money and more importantly, he had a cool car. After 3 years in his step dad's body shop, he opened his own shop. He was the first sponsor of Ronnie Renner, x-games dirt bike rider, with a custom job on his helmet. He worked mainly on trucks, and made the cover of such magazines as Truckin', Mini Truckin', Sport Trucks, and Street Trucks. Bones was eventually approached to paint custom choppers and did... 4 or 5 later he realized that choppers were his preference, and scored his first easy Rider cover.
